BACKGROUND

Are you ready to drive impactful climate action?

"Becoming a Climate Champion" is an interactive online course designed to equip you with essential skills for excelling in climate action in five key areas: leadership, project management, resource mobilization, leave no one behind and communications.

You will learn from high-level experts how to apply these skills to your climate and environmental projects, transforming your initiatives into successful, meaningful contributions to a sustainable future. Whether you are an entrepreneur, student, government official or NGO worker, this course empowers you to take your work to the next level and ramp up action against climate change.

"Becoming a Climate Champion" was developed by UN CC:Learn and UN Climate Change's Youth4Capacity.

Enrol today to take the first step to becoming a Climate Champion!

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

What will you learn?

The e-course aims to build people’s capacities in five key areas - leadership, project management, resource mobilization, leave no one behind and communications - to support them in climate-related projects.

After completing the course, you will be able to:

- Devise an inclusive climate action project or initiative that contributes to global efforts to tackle climate change.
- Outline a brief communications plan to promote climate-friendly projects and initiatives.
- Identify the resources needed to successfully implement a climate project or initiative.
- Describe key elements to consider when conceptualizing and implementing inclusive and gender-responsive climate projects and initiatives.
- Make use of different leadership styles in climate action projects and initiatives.
