BACKGROUND

The World Economic Forum (WEF)’s “The Future of Jobs Report 2025” projects that 170 million jobs will be created by 2030, while 92 million will be displaced. Now more than ever there is a growing importance of human-centred skills such as leadership, resilience, adaptability, and emotional intelligence. As organisations respond to rapid change, leadership approaches that prioritises people, purpose, and inclusion are becoming increasingly important. In this context, human-centred leadership plays a key role in fostering collaboration, trust, and effective engagement.

In line with the Pact for the Future and UN 2.0, this e-workshop introduces core principles of authentic leadership and explores transcendent leadership as an approach suited to today's workplace challenges. It also creates space for participants to reflect on their leadership identity and consider how to apply human-centred leadership in practice

EVENT OBJECTIVES

This workshop aims to equip participants to understand and embody a more authentic, human-centered approach to leadership by exploring authentic and transcendent leadership, clarifying their individual leadership identity, and identifying practical ways to put human-centered leadership into practice both immediately and over time.

This workshop is one of the micro-credentials offered in UNITAR's Online Professional Diploma in Skills for the Future and Employability, comprising six online workshops: three focused on technical skills and three on human-centred skills.

Participants interested in further developing their competencies are encouraged to consider enrolling in the Professional Diploma programme. To register please click here.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

After completing the e-workshop, participants should be able to:

- Describe key principles of authentic and human-centred leadership;
- Explain the concept of transcendent leadership and its relevance in professional contexts;
- Reflect on their own leadership identity and areas for development;
- Identify ways to apply human-centred leadership in practice.

CONTENT AND STRUCTURE

The e-workshop will be 3 hours long, conducted via the platform Zoom and will be facilitated by an expert on the topic. The material presented in the e-workshop will be interactive and assignments will be given for participants to further advance their knowledge.

Upon successful completion of the e-workshop, participants will be eligible to receive a certificate after successful completion.

Participants interested in further developing their competencies are encouraged to consider enrolling in the Online Professional Diploma in Skills for the Future and Employability. To register please click here.

METHODOLOGY

UNITAR courses are designed to be highly interactive and participatory. Activities will include direct access to understand and discuss the topics at hand with a top expert in the respective field as well as opportunities to exchange knowledge will fellow participants. All activities will be conducted online.

The workshop may consist of the following components:

- Compulsory and optional reading material, intended to teach the fundamentals of the topic;
- Multimedia and external links to additional books, articles, documents, and websites related to the lessons;
- Quizzes and case studies;
- Community Discussion Boards;
- Learning journal entries corresponding to each e-workshop;
- Collaborative learning tools such as simulation exercises.

Participants will have access to the UNITAR e-Learning platform, where they will be able to interact with each other and their instructor via the discussion boards, view course materials, videos, and recordings as well as relevant additional resources.

TARGETED AUDIENCE

This workshop is designed for government officials, diplomats, private sector specialists, practitioners in the international arena, academics, students or any interested participants who are seeking to adapt to evolving global dynamics and strengthen employability through agility, innovation and data-driven strategic thinking.
