BACKGROUND

Access to drinking water, as well as sanitation, is an essential human right for the enjoyment of life and all human rights; the power to visualize it as such and not as a privilege. Sustainable water management not only includes achieving access to safe water and adequate sanitation services, but also involves addressing the issue in a broader context, incorporating issues such as water quality, scarcity and good use of water.

EVENT OBJECTIVES

The purpose of the training is to allow participants to acquire knowledge about the different types of water, the importance of water as a strategic resource, understand the right to water as social justice, and know how the absence of the right to access water affects them.
