The United Nations Institute for Training and Research (UNITAR) and the Open University of Catalonia (UOC) have joined forces to create a unique International Master's Degree in Conflictology for professionals working in the field of peace and security. This Master's programme is designed to enable candidates to upgrade their studies and professional experience with a formally-recognised degree awarded by the Open University of Catalonia. The Master's is an innovative degree in which students learn from a highly-respected academic institution and a UN Institute which specialises in peacekeeping training. This combination allows students to benefit from the UN's experience in peacekeeping and from the critical thinking which is essential in academia.

Conflicts are everywhere...but solutions exists!

The International Master's Degree in Conflictology presents empirical knowledge and insight on conflict resolution, transformation, mediation and management in an educational setting. Practitioners and academics from prestigious universities, the United Nations and peace research institutes get together with participants from different countries in this virtual course, no matter where they live, to learn about peace and security and to prepare for professional practice. This programme trains participants in all applications of conflictology and facilitates the development of professional projects by giving participants access to the largest network of people working to promote peace.

Selection Procedure and Eligibility

Applications should reach UNITAR / UOC in January of each year for courses starting courses in the Spring semester, and in August of each year for courses starting in the Fall semester.

Each application will be reviewed by the Selection Committee of UNITAR and UOC.

To gain admission on the official Master's course, candidates must have an official university degree.

This notwithstanding, UNITAR and the UOC may admit candidates with pending degrees, as long as all necessary courses for said degrees were passed.

The Selection Committee will verify prior to enrolment that the courses taken were the equivalent level of a university degree and that they allow admission to postgraduate courses in the country of issue of the qualification.

In some cases, candidates with at least 5 years of diplomatic experience or experience in the field may be accepted on the postgraduate programme without a university degree.

Participants are not expected, however, to have prior experience in or knowledge of the field.

Candidates must be proficient in English and have reliable access to the internet.

Tuition Fees and Scholarships

Full scholarships covering the fee may be available to outstanding candidates from developing countries and these will be advertised on the UNITAR website: http://www.unitar.org/ptp/

Fee waivers may be available for candidates from Least Developed Countries (LDCs) to cover parts of the fees. Once the fee waiver has been applied, fees will be: USD 8800

Candidates having taken relevant UNITAR courses in the past and candidates currently enrolled in UNITAR courses may decide to register for the above Master Degree. The completed courses may be transferred and accepted as part of the fulfilment of the degree requirements in specific cases. Prices and completion deadlines apply.
